this month's celeb trend: GOLDEN EYES

GOOD AS GOLD: (Clockwise from above) Charlotte Church; Jennifer Love Hewitt; and Britney Spears.

ALL THAT GLITTERS: (Clockwise from top) Benefit Gilded liner ($16; 800-781-2336); Caboodles Shimmer Stick ($5; at drugstores) in Flame On; Becoming 3-D 3-in-1 gloss ($12; 866-I-BECOME) in Precious; Physician's Formula Pearls of Perfection Eye Shadow ($7; at drugstores) in Bronze Pearl; Tommy Hilfiger Shimmerdust for Eyes ($10; tommy.com) in Lovin'; Awake Eye Shadow ($18; sephora.com) in Ancient Gold.

Midas Touch

IN HOLLYWOOD, A TOWN known for putting on the glitz, gold eye shadow is practically a prerequisite. And if you wear it right—as a sheer wash of color on the lids, a delicate lacing along the lash lines or a punkish smudge just beneath the eyes—the 24-karat look is surprisingly subtle. “It’s confident, fun and fresh,” says New York City-based makeup artist Mally Roncal, who’s helped everyone from Keri Russell to Jennifer Lopez shimmer. Mally’s one rule: “Use it sparingly,” she says. Good advice for looking movie-star gorgeous but not over-the-top.

Q+A

ANY TIPS ON HOW TO WEAR GOLD EYE SHADOW DURING THE DAY AND THEN SPICE IT UP FOR NIGHTTIME?

—JENN BREINLINGER, 15, MELBOURNE, FLA.

A touch of gold eye shadow is plenty for daytime. But at night, anything goes: Add more gold on the lids to get a dramatic gilded look or use brown eyeliner on the top and bottom for a smoky, defined eye.
